Massive tax cut looms this week

WASHINGTON (AP) — A massive tax cut to fight the recession may win congressional approval this week, although its reception at the White House could hinge on whether Congress makes some commitment to hold down spending.

Both the House and Senate plan busy schedules this week in preparation for an Easter recess that starts Friday for the Senate and March 26 for the House.

Emergency military aid for Cambodia is to get Senate and House committee action today and Tuesday and could go to the full House by the end of the week. Democrats in both chambers have criticized the aid proposal, and the House committee has already rejected one compromise.

The House resumes its consideration today of a bill to protect the environment against the abuses of coal strip mining. That mining method accounts for half the nation's 600-million-ton annual coal production.

The measure to impose minimum federal environmental and reclamation standards on surface mining appeared headed toward passage, with both sponsors and opponents predicting approval. The bill is essentially the same one that President Ford vetoed last year.

The Senate passed a companion bill last week by more than the two-thirds vote needed to override another veto, and backers say they expect a similar margin of approval in the House.

Some congressmen planned to try to add to the bill today a ban on all strip mining on steep mountain slopes. A similar move failed in the Senate.

The Senate is scheduled to take up a $29.2 billion tax cut bill that was approved Friday by the Senate Finance Committee. That figure compares to a $19.9 billion tax cut bill approved by the House and a $16 billion cut asked by President Ford.

House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes said Sunday that he didn't think Ford would accept a tax cut as large as that proposed in the Senate committee's bill unless Congress gives "a hard and fast" commitment against enacting new spending programs. Rhodes spoke on "Face the Nation" on CBS.

Congressional leaders hope to complete work on a tax cut before going on Easter recess. If Ford signs the bill, rebate checks could be in the mail by May.

Another possible snarl in the push for tax cuts is the oil depletion allowance, which allows oil producers to deduct 22 per cent of their petroleum-related revenue for income tax purposes.

The House-passed tax cut bill would repeal the allowance. The Senate will consider the proposed repeal separately from the tax cut measure. Oil state forces have threatened a Senate filibuster to preserve the allowance, which saves oil producers an estimated $2.5 billion annually in taxes.

If a House-Senate conference produces a final tax cut bill that included the depletion allowance repealer, there could be a presidential veto because Ford opposes the repeal.

Both the Senate and House bills provide for rebates of 1974 taxes up to $200 per taxpayer. The House bill also provided for 1975 tax relief for families with less than $20,000 income which do not itemize deductions.

The Senate committee added a provision to cut by 4 per cent the basic tax rate on the first $4,000 of taxable income, thus virtually assuring every taxpayer a tax cut of $40.

The Senate bill also gives each taxpayer the option of a $200-per-person tax credit instead of the present $750-per-person exemption that is subtracted from taxable income.

The Senate committee's bill would provide a 5 per cent tax credit up to $2,000 for every person who buys a house or mobile home as a principal residence before the end of the year.

Later in the week, the Senate is expected to vote on a $3.5 billion foreign aid appropriation and a $5.9 billion funding bill to finance a variety of job-creating programs.

After disposing of strip mining, the House is scheduled to vote Tuesday on a farm bill to boost the government-guaranteed prices for milk, cotton, corn and other farm products.

SACRIFICE ON PRINCIPLE — Dr. John S. Kelly, left, his wife and six of their 14 children are pictured in their home at Chicago Heights, Ill., south of Chicago. Dr. Kelly may lose his home because he refuses to pay $3.14 in taxes he withheld the last two years because he says that amount would have been used to finance the voluntary abortion program at Chicago's Cook County Hospital. Dr. Kelly says he is giving up his practice and moving to Ireland, because of his objection to legalized abortion in the United States.

Greenfield drug store robbed at gunpoint; narcotics taken

GREENFIELD — A Greenfield drug store was robbed at gunpoint early Monday by three men who fled with an undetermined amount of narcotics.

Greenfield Police Sgt. William Wisecup, who is heading the investigation, said three bearded men, all believed to be in their early 20s, entered Stewart's Pharmacy, 414 Jefferson St., shortly after 10 a.m. and stole a large amount of narcotics from the drug store.

According to the report, the men brandished a sawed-off shotgun and ordered the store's employees, Carl Longociu, a pharmacist, and Mrs. Bertie Smith, to lay down in the rear of the store. The suspects then ordered Longociu to open the narcotics cabinet. An undetermined amount of narcotics in addition to hypodermic syringes were stolen.

The narcotics and drug-related equipment were loaded into a green Army-type duffel bag.

The trio stole Longociu's wallet, containing $18 in cash, his pharmacist's identification and a BancAmericard.

Money in the store's cash register was not stolen, according to investigating officers.

According to Longociu and Mrs. Wisecup, the men's faces were not covered by the ski caps. The sawed-off shotgun was the only weapon carried by the trio.

The store had opened at 9 a.m. John Stewart, proprietor of the drug store, was in Bainbridge at the time of the armed robbery.

Witnesses near the scene of the robbery told investigating officers the men fled to parked cars located in the 400 block of Mirabeau Street, a block south of the drug store. Greenfield police and officers from a number of surrounding law enforcement agencies are seeking two vehicles in connection with the incident. The vehicles are believed to be bearing out-of-state license plates.

Seven Greenfield police officers and two auxiliary officers in addition to deputies from the Highland County Sheriff's Department are conducting the continuing investigation.

An unidentified middle-aged woman, a customer in the store at the time of the armed robbery, fainted and was taken to Greenfield Municipal Hospital for treatment. She has been released.

FBI still seeks Jack Scott

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The FBI agent in charge of the hunt for Patricia Hearst says the highly publicized attempt by the FBI to talk to sports radical Jack Scott could end in Scott's simple refusal to cooperate and the FBI's polite backdown.

Charles Bates told The Associated Press Sunday night that his men would have to "turn around and walk away" if Scott refused to talk to them.

Scott and his wife, Micki, have been sought for questioning since they were linked in news reports last week to an eastern Pennsylvania farmhouse where Miss Hearst and Symbionese Liberation Army members Bill and Emily Harris may have hidden out last fall.

He said there is no warrant out for Scott's arrest. "All we can do is tell him we'd like to talk to him. If he doesn't want to, he doesn't have to. If he refused, I'd say, 'Thank you very much.'"

Reports of new leads may convince Miss Hearst and the Harrises to turn themselves in "without anyone being hurt," Bates said.

But the fugitives could also reason: "Oh, well, they know now where we've been recently and they may know now, so we'd better get lost or hide," he said.

"It's too early to assess. I'm hoping that it helps. But I won't know until the thing's over."

Bates denied published reports that Scott had eluded FBI agents in a high-speed chase in Berkeley last week and later abandoned his rented car.

He said of the reported chase: "Nobody would elude us once we found them. I don't know where that came from. There was never any chase. We haven't been out trying to grab him."

Bates refused to comment on a report that Harris' fingerprints were found in a New York City apartment Scott left last September.

The Chicago Tribune said Sunday that Scott apparently left that apartment to join the fugitives at the Pennsylvania farmhouse rented by Mrs. Scott and that the FBI told the Wayne County, Pa., sheriff's department that Miss Hearst "was supposed to be pregnant or pretending to be pregnant."

Bates said he could neither confirm nor deny reports that the fingerprints of Miss Hearst, the Harrises and indicted fugitive Wendy Yoshimura were found in the Pennsylvania farmhouse.

Asked if there were any basis for a warrant against Scott, Bates replied: "For what? It's a lot tougher to charge a person than people think."

He said it could not be determined when fingerprints might have been made and there is nothing illegal in the mere rental of a farmhouse by the Scotts.

The San Francisco Chronicle said today that the revolutionary Weather Underground is believed by the FBI to have put the fugitives in touch with the people who have been helping them remain safely underground since a Los Angeles shootout with police last May in which six SLA members were killed.

Onassis bequeaths Jackie $120 million

PARIS (AP) — Aristotle Onassis left his widow Jacqueline about $120 million, most of his valuable paintings, and trust funds of $15 million each to her two children by President John F. Kennedy, family sources in Athens report.

They said the bulk of the Greek shipping magnate's estimated $600 million fortune will go to his only surviving child, 24-year-old Christina.

Art dealers in Athens conservatively estimate the value of Onassis' collection of paintings by Gauguin, El Greco, Van Gogh and Picasso at $20 million. One dealer said that several paintings already were hanging in Mrs. Onassis' Fifth Avenue apartment in New York.

Sources close to the family said Jacqueline had received a settlement at the time of her marriage to Onassis to provide for the two Kennedy children through a trust fund, with cash for herself and unlimited expenses while Onassis lived.

Onassis died in Paris Saturday at the age of 69. Doctors gave bronchopulmonary infection as the cause of death.

Family sources said Onassis' body will be flown by private jet from Paris to Greece on Tuesday for burial and will be accompanied by Jacqueline, Christina, and other close members of the family.

The plane will land at Actium on Greece's west coast. From there, the relatives and the body will be taken to nearby Leucas and then aboard Onassis' palatial yacht Christina to the Onassis-owned island of Scorpios for the burial service immediately after arrival, the sources said.

Onassis' fortune is not expected to be diminished appreciably by inheritance taxes. The shipping magnate's numerous and varied holdings are spread through a maze of companies that mostly are domiciled in Monaco and other tax shelters.

Commission to advertise for bids on sale of downtown parking lot

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners adopted a resolution Monday to begin advertising for sealed bids for the sale of the former Washington C. H. Eagles parking lot on the southwest corner of Fayette and Market streets.

Chairman Ray Warner said the commissioners would advertise for four consecutive weeks to receive sealed bids, which must be submitted to the commissioners' office by noon April 14.

The commissioners agreed to sell the small corner lot just one week after purchasing the former Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home at 224 N. Main St. for $44,000.

Warner stated the former funeral home property, which includes an 11-room residence and three-car garage, was purchased through federal revenue sharing funds and will be used for future expansion of county offices.

Depending on the success of the sale of the former Eagles parking lot, the commissioners said they would act on an option to purchase a tract of land to the rear of the former funeral home property and directly across from the Washington C.H. City Office Building, presently being cleared and graded by the Huntington Bank of Washington C.H.

In other business Monday, the commissioners reported they will appoint one representative to attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday with Fayette County Disaster Services director Ralston M. Smith for the purpose of establishing an advisory and executive committee composed of representatives from the city of Washington C. H., the county commissioners and the 10 townships in the county.

The commissioners were to receive bids for the Fayette County Sheriff's Department dry cleaning at 11 a.m. and render a final decision on the

Over 500 boxes already distributed to county customers

Decision on Girl Scout cookies expected here today

Officials from the Central Ohio Girl Scout Council said Monday further information was expected to be received this afternoon in the investigation of possible contamination because of a glass-like particle found in a box of Girl Scout thin mint cookies recently distributed into the central Ohio region.

According to Mrs. Nancy Gates, public relations director of the council, tests are currently being conducted in both Ohio and the New Jersey manufacturing plant of the Burry Biscuit

Division of Quaker Oat Co. after a foreign substance, believed to be styrene, a hard glass-like plastic, was discovered in one of the thin mint cookies.

Mrs. Gates said it was believed the problem was limited to the one box in the Ohio area but some 120,000 boxes of the thin mint variety being distributed in 16 central and southern Ohio counties have been halted until completion of the investigation.

Mrs. Gates said no particles have been found in any of the four other types of cookies being sold by Girl Scouts in the area.

Counties where the thin mint cookies were being distributed included Fayette, Delaware, Union, Madison, Franklin, Pickaway, Fairfield, Hocking, Ross, Highland, Adams, Pike, Scioto, Vinton, Jackson and Gallia.

Over 500 boxes of the cookies were ordered in Fayette County, with a majority of the thin mint cookies already distributed to customers, said Fayette County service unit director of Girl Scouts, Mrs. Charline Cunningham.

Mrs. Cunningham said there has been "no large stir" over the cookie investigation and stated she had not received any authorized information from the Girl Scout Council.

Mrs. Shirley Leach, field director for the Girl Scout Council, said that while the council feels the discovery of the particle was an isolated case, the council is taking all precautions in advising customers to hold on to their boxes of thin mints for proof of purchase and not consume the cookies until the testing has been completed.

Robert Thurston, senior vice president of the Quaker Oat Co., said the cookie lots were being tested as far back as January and "there is no reason to believe that it is anything more than a very isolated problem."

Mrs. Gates said officials from the Ohio Department of Agriculture and the Food and Drug Administration were assisting in the thorough investigation and customers would be notified as soon as testing results are disclosed.

Ford against U.S. isolationism

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Urging rejection of the "new isolationism," President Ford expressed confidence today that Americans know they cannot "resign from the world."

Ford argued for continued U.S. involvement in world affairs — and particularly for foreign aid programs — in a speech prepared for a special convocation at the University of Notre Dame campus near South Bend, Ind. While Ford's Notre Dame text placed heavy emphasis on foreign aid, mainly economic assistance, he made no mention of his controversial requests for more military aid for Cambodia and South Vietnam.

As in his other recent travels, Ford prepared a busy schedule today. Besides making a speech and receiving a doctor of laws degree during his first campus appearance of the year, Ford was to entertain newspaper and broadcast executives from six states at lunch, holding a locally broadcast news conference and having a working dinner with governors before returning to Washington.

Governors were invited from Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland and Virginia — all those from states east of the Rockies who did not meet with him during earlier trips to Georgia, Florida, Texas and Kansas.

In his Notre Dame text, Ford said he believed the nation had the capacity "to resolve our difficulties at home without turning our back on the rest of the world."

Noting that Notre Dame has students from more than 60 countries, Ford said:

"Let this demonstrate to all Americans that other people place a

Onassis empire to stay intact

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Aristotle Onassis' empire, a spider's web of international corporations, is expected to remain intact and continue flourishing.

Although Onassis made the key decisions, he had some of the world's most talented businessmen advising him in the accumulation and control of an empire estimated at more than $1 billion. His advisers sit in London, Monte Carlo and New York, the control points for worldwide interests in shipping, real estate, mining and a variety of other fields.

His 24-year-old daughter Christina inherits the bulk of his estate. After the death of her only brother two years ago, she reportedly grew close to her father and showed a good mind for business.

Most of Onassis' many tankers and other ships, whether directly or indirectly controlled by him, are owned by Panamanian corporations. Of the 60 ships Onassis directly controlled through his Springfield Shipping Co., 59 fly the Panamanian flag with only one under Greek registry.

Onassis' luxurious 325-foot motor yacht, the Christina, is also registered in Panama.

Registry in Panama, Monaco and other tax shelters for Onassis' ships and the corporations controlling his other interests allowed him to escape taxation in the capitals from which he operated. The magnate himself reportedly held three passports, from Argentina, Monaco and Greece.

"Unravelling his empire would be like playing three dimensional backgammon," a shipping source in Athens said.

Rival Greek shipowners who feared his competitiveness admired his business acumen.

Greek shipping magnate John Theodoropoulos described Onassis as "the founder of the present magnificent Greek shipping world. He revolutionized the building of new ships with his brilliant idea of paying for them with charters."

Under this system, Onassis would meet construction costs by chartering out a ship — to an oil company, for example — to carry cargo. The charters were usually for long periods.

Oil fraud probe widens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal agents, probing allegations that oil companies charged illegally high prices, are going to investigate the records of every major utility in the nation, a Federal Energy Administration official says.

The investigation, which centers around the rapid rise of prices during the Arab oil embargo, was said to involve possible fraud and millions of dollars of illegal overcharges to customers such as the utilities.

Grand juries in Jacksonville, Fla., New York and Los Angeles already are looking into the possible price manipulations by oil suppliers, the FEA official said Sunday. Similar cases may also be presented to grand juries in Houston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston.

"We are going to investigate every major utility company in the nation," the FEA official said.

Under investigation are allegations that importers and suppliers falsified documents required by the Customs Service, such as mislabeling the country of origin of some oil delivered by tankers to the United States during the 1973 embargo.

For example, one alleged case of fraud reportedly involved a tanker in an East Coast port with oil claimed to be from Venezuela, the first nation outside the Arab bloc to raise prices to $10 a barrel.

But the oil reportedly was from Nigeria, where the price was still $5.50. That alleged overcharge came to $2 million.

In Los Angeles, customs agents reportedly were looking into purchases by the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power.

John Russell, a buyer for the department, said agents have checked department records several times. Russell said as far as he knows the probe involves only one company in Los Angeles but he declined to name it.

Customs agents reportedly were checking purchases by the department of oil at $25 a barrel, five times what it had paid before the embargo.

Russell said there was one instance where the department paid $25 a barrel for 150,000 barrels of oil from Peru through Cirillo Bros. Co. of New York.

The next highest amount paid was more than $24 per barrel for one million barrels from Coastal States Marketing in Houston, he said.

"Another term contract subject to escalation was a joint offering from International Gas Traders of Lugano, Switzerland, and Petrobay, Ltd., a Bahamas corporation with offices in Quincy, Mass.," he added.

Around the country, investigators have found possible violations involving at least $21 million and possibly as much as $100 million.

high valuation on what America has to offer. Let it demonstrate that the University of Notre Dame rejects the new isolationism."

While the President emphasized economic assistance, he made a passing reference to military aid without mentioning Southeast Asia. He said:

"While we pursue a peaceful world in which there is unity and diversity, we must continue to support security against aggression and subversion. To do otherwise would invite greater violence."

While saying more is required than "moralizing about the role others should take," Ford did offer advice to other nations, saying:

"In cases where countries have dreams, let them join in sharing with others. Some have helped. Others have not. We led the way and we will not shirk from future burdens."

Ford said all nations also must "realize the need for peaceful accommodation with neighbors." He continued:

"An interdependent world cannot solve disputes by threats or force. People depend on each other more than they realize. For example, we import between 50 and 100 per cent of such essential minerals as cobalt, bauxite, tin, nickel, manganese, mercury and others."

One of the challenges that confronts the American people, he said, "is whether we learn nothing from the past and return to the introversion of the 1930s, to the dangerous notion that our fate is unrelated to the fate of others."

North Vietnamese pull noose tighter

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese forces pulled the noose tighter on South Vietnam's central highlands today, cutting a fourth highway into the region and leaving only one road open, the Saigon command said.

The second week of the North Vietnamese drive against the area ended with an attack on Dinh Quan, a district town 50 miles northeast of Saigon, that cut Highway 20 to Dalat.

Government officers also conceded that the North Vietnamese had captured virtually all of Ban Me Thuot, the capital of Darlac province, in the highlands. They said a few hundred government troops remain in the devastated city, isolated but in radio contact with government forces.

The fate of nine Americans trapped in Ban Me Thuot by the fighting was unknown.

Kien Duc, a district town south of Ban Me Thuot, was reported under heavy attack. A village six miles southeast of Kien Duc was overrun, field reports said.

Nearly 30 Americans have been evacuated from the highlands and half of the South Vietnamese 2nd Corps headquarters at Pleiku has been moved to Nha Trang, on the coast, because of the deteriorating military situation. Thousands of civilians, most of them military dependents, have been flown out of Pleiku.

South Vietnamese forces also were meeting stiff resistance along the Cambodian border 50 miles northwest of Saigon in an operation to drive back North Vietnamese forces threatening Tay Ninh, another provincial capital.

Viet Cong gunners fired 30 rockets into a government base camp on the outskirts of Tay Ninh, hitting an ammunition dump and setting off explosions that lasted for more than an hour.

More South Vietnamese infantry reinforcements were rushed to Hieu Thien, a threatened district town 10 miles south of Tay Ninh, to join in the counteroffensive to retake more than a half dozen outposts and villages that fell to the North Vietnamese last week.

Another district town 75 miles northeast of Saigon, Hoai Duc, also was under heavy rocket and infantry assault, the Saigon command said.

Viet Cong forces also struck within three miles of downtown Saigon, the command reported. A handful of sappers attacked a fuel depot on the outskirts of the capital, wounding 10 government soldiers and damaging rubber field tanks. About 250 gallons of gasoline were destroyed, officials said.

U.S. embassy burns papers in Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Saigon (AP) — The United States Embassy has begun burning documents and has asked volunteer American relief agencies to reduce their staffs to essential personnel, American sources reported today.

Ambassador John Gunther Dean asked Catholic Relief Services, World Vision and C.A.R.E. to send nonessential personnel to Bangkok or Saigon until after the U.S. Congress votes on President Ford's request for supplemental military aid for Cambodia, employees of some of the agencies said.

Embassy officials believe that Congress will reject the request, and some fear anti-American demonstration or general chaos in Phnom Penh. But it is apparent that the Embassy also fears the collapse of President Lon Nol's government and foresees the possibility of the fall of Phnom Penh to the Communist-led insurgents.

Members of the Embassy staff have begun packing their household goods. A special plane came in Sunday and Monday to take out personal effects of staff members.

Inside the Embassy, communications documents are being burned. Furniture and other equipment is being inventoried in preparation for speedy evacuation, sources said.

"Everybody is packing up," said one American. "It's just a precaution."

A visitor to the homes of several American diplomats in the past week reported: "Everyone is trying to be casual but they are packing furiously." Australia closed its embassy last week and moved its personnel to Bangkok.

The French embassy was reduced to a consulate today, and Charge d'Affaires Albert Pavac and 14 members of his staff went to Bangkok.

Stock list advances

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made another broad advance in active trading today amid evidently rising hopes for an economic upturn soon.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 4.61 at 778.08, and gainers held a 3-1 edge on losers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon told the Senate Budget Committee this morning that "the downward slide of the economy is losing momentum." His remarks followed Friday's news that businesses had been able to work down their inventories by $148 million in January.

Jim Walter was the Big Board's most active issue, up 1/2 at 31 1/2 in trading marked by a 192,400-share block at 31 1/2. The company reported a strong earnings gain for its fiscal first half ended Feb. 28.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index climbed .86 to 80.86.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .25 at 45.12.

Champion Home Builders, the Amex volume leader, was up 1/4 at 4 1/2.

Rare cancer discovered

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — A New York pathologist and cancer researcher confirmed Sunday the existence of a northeastern Minnesota case of a rare form of cancer usually caused by asbestos fibers.

Dr. Irving Selikoff of Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York City, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that he was familiar with a case reported Saturday by CBS television.

However, Selikoff pointed out that "no conclusions can be drawn from one case. I cannot emphasize that strongly enough."

The CBS news report said a man in Duluth had been diagnosed as having mesothelioma, a rare form of cancer affecting the lining of the chest and abdomen.

Selikoff said most cases of mesothelioma are caused by inhaling asbestos. He said many persons contracting the disease are employed in industries where asbestos is present in the air.

Rain lingers in Southeast; damage listed in millions

By The Associated Press

Rain, drizzle and fog lingered over the southeastern states today as flood waters rose in Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama.

About 500 families in Columbus, Miss., left their homes Sunday night as the Tombigbee River rose to eight feet above flood stage and spread out over a three-square mile area.

No injuries were reported and residents of the area seemed to be taking it calmly, going to church or restaurants despite flood waters rising in nearby parking lots.

The heaviest downpour Sunday was in southern Georgia where reports of

State highway toll lowest in years

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—In 1974, Ohio recorded its lowest highway death toll in more than a decade—1,862 fatalities.

State highway safety officials say the 55 mile per hour speed limit has been an important factor in the decline.

Ohio officially adopted the 55 m.p.h. speed limit a year ago this month, following several months of its being a voluntary measure to conserve fuel supplies, said Ted Beardshear, public information chief in the state highway safety department.

"You can't point directly to the lower speed limit as a causal factor in the decline in fatalities," he said, "but you can point to the direction the figures are taking."

Ohio was among 46 states that showed decreases in highway deaths during 1974, he said.

"According to national figures, Ohio was down 22 per cent over the previous year," said Beardshear.

That's 6 per cent less than Michigan and 7 per cent less than Pennsylvania, two states that compare favorably with Ohio in terms of drivers and roads, he said.

Also in 1974, the mileage death rate—the number of vehicle deaths per 100 million miles traveled—dropped to a record 3.0.

By comparison, in 1961, the year with the lowest death toll so far, the mileage death rate was 4.9.

That means that although there were 230 less persons killed in 1961 compared to 1974, there were nearly 2 less deaths per 100 million miles traveled in 1974, Beardshear said.

He said Ohio's 3.0 mileage death rate meets a goal the National Safety Council hopes to achieve nationwide by 1980.

According to the Ohio Highway Patrol, Ohio's seven million motorists seemed to have accepted the new limit. "Compliance with the 55 m.p.h. limit is better than it was with the old 70 m.p.h. — even better now than it was six months ago," said Lt. Col. Adams Reiss, deputy superintendent of the state highway patrol.

He points out that the number of tickets issued by patrolmen have dropped from a high in September 1974 to 51,000 to 38,000 in January and 35,500 in February.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A delayed report: CBS' "We'll Get By" may get by if most of its cast is persuaded that overacting undermines a comedy series. The scripts look fair and the show has a nice feel to it.
The series, created by Alan "M-A-S-H" Alda, concerns events in the suburban New Jersey home of George Platt, a fortyish sales engineer with one wife, two sons and a teen-aged daughter.
Its scheduled national premiere Friday night proved a good showcase for the talents of broadcast actor Paul Sorvino, who plays Platt, and Mitzi Hoag, cast as his wife.
But the story, a yarn involving Old Dad's curiosity about the new boyfriend of his daughter, lost punch because the daughter — Devon Scott — the older son — Jerry Houser — and the preteen boy — Willie Aames — came off more as aspiring little theater thespians than believable members of a TV family. They tended to ham it up.
The show, which had some good lines, wasn't the sort that will send Norman Lear dashing off to find a competing controversy.

It commenced with Platt Sr. seeking an old pair of Bermuda shorts for a coming company picnic whilst his daughter tied up the phone — to the predictable dismay of her brothers — talking to her beau.

Like all fathers, Platt was concerned about the beau, mainly because he'd never met him. He suggested that his daughter do some instant introducing and bring the lad to the picnic — or else.

Mom intervened and, in separate negotiations, asked the daughter if she wasn't spending too much time with her boyfriend.

"He's not a boyfriend," the girl explained. "He's just a boy who's a friend I happen to spend all my time with."

She departs on a date with the lad. Late that night, as Mom and Pop wait up for her, Pop hears a car pulling up. He carries out his threat to stomp out and see the guy squiring about his daughter.

He sheepishly returns, having stopped a police car. His wife asks what he said to the car. Replies he: "I said, 'Good evening, officer. I thought you were my daughter.'"

He finally gets to meet the boyfriend — Adam Arkin — and, after some mildly amusing family banter, learns they have a common interest in fishing. And a nice chat is had by all.

At the finale, beau and girl stand on the front porch, he conceding it was a good idea to meet her parents face to face.

"Besides, if they get to know and trust me, we can get away with murder," he reasons.

Hearing set in escape

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — William Murphy, 28, already under sentence of 4-25 years in prison for robbery, will appear Wednesday for arraignment in Hamilton Municipal Court on charges growing out of his escape Thursday.

Murphy, held on $77,800 bond, was recaptured Friday at Franklin. He escaped from the courtroom of Butler County Common Pleas Judge Robert L. Marrs, police said.

Murphy allegedly disarmed two deputies and used his lawyer as a human shield during the escape, according to Butler County Sheriff Harold Carpenter. This happened shortly after he was sentenced.

The beef over 'Choice'

The Agriculture Department's insistence on putting revised beef grading standards into effect does not set well with consumer groups. When Agriculture proposed the new system it touched off an unprecedented response, of which close to 60 per cent was negative.

This is not surprising, since the new standards will allow about 20 per cent more beef to qualify as "Choice." It has been objected that this means a lot of beef that would heretofore have been labeled only "Good" will now get a higher marking - and sell at a higher price.

THESE DAYS . . . . By John Chamberlain

The rest won't follow us

The U.S. has been given over to the doom-sayers. Ecologists such as Dr. Barry Commoner make many good points, and the best of them are not averse to using more advanced forms of technology to deal with the baleful "neighborhood effects" of older technologies that have been thoughtlessly used without regard to environment. But the ragtag and bobtail of the ecological movement belong to the tribe of "terrible simplifiers." They hate our industrial system, and are in the thick of all the campaigns to deny us immediately usable substitutes for the oil that we now import at such expense.

The rage now is to kill off nuclear energy before it can have a palpable effect on our public utility bills. Ralph its way in the U.S. But the outer world remains distinctly unimpressed. The Iranians, looking far ahead to the time when their oil fields will be dry, are ordering nuclear plants in the U.S. Taiwan and Japan have done the same. Israel and Egypt are in on the act. France is building her own reactor system; the big breeder reactor at Marcoule on the Rhone River is already delivering 250,000 kilowatts of electricity to the French power grid. So it is not surprising that Chairman William Casey of the U.S. Export-Import Bank is now predicting that "within three years the nation's single biggest export item will be nuclear reactors." The sale of nuclear equipment will, so Casey thinks, "easily exceed" the $5 billion-a-year figure that we now earn by exporting aircraft.

The point is well taken. There is one hidden plus in the new grading system, however. If it forces consumption of more lean beef, that should please nutritionists, who say we eat too much animal fat for our own good.

The outer world, in short, has no hankering to retreat to the pre-technological gae. Since technology confers powers, the U.S., if it is to listen to the terrible simplifiers, will end up by becoming a weakling among giants who would be certainly tempted to move in on us for the kill.

The Soviets, who jail their Benjamin Rosenthals, have no need to attack us just yet. They watch while the trust-busters in our Department of Justice try to fragmentize such strong and efficient entities as the A.T.&T., with its Bell Labs system, and IBM. Dr. Edward E. David Jr., who was Nixon's first-rate scientific adviser before he left to work for Gould, Inc., in Chicago, thinks our modern trust-busters want us to have a "cottage industry" type of Research and Development. The Department of Justice may succeed in breaking up our bigger R. and D. establishments, but Philips in Holland, Siemens in West Germany, Nippon Electric in Japan, and other uninhibited organizations in the outer world would continue to provide the R. and D. staying power that makes for progress. We would continue to share in that progress, but only for a huge fee for patent use.

Government R. and D. is another story; the U.S. still has a $21.5 billion budget for nuclear, space, military, health, transportation and housing research. But how much of this moves quickly into fields that would insure our survival? A frightening bit from Air Force Magazine for March concerns "the enormous Soviet investment in the detection and destruction" of our nuclear-propelled and nuclear-armed submarines. Soviet "killer submarines" now shadow our own subs "on a one-to-one basis twenty-four hours a day."

If our undersea nuclear deterrent is about to be neutralized, we are indeed in mortal peril. Yet we still encourage our anti-technological, anti-scientific ecofreaks whose one skill is the collection of names to frighten Congressmen.

Energy fairy tale put out

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP) — To bring home the impossibility of trying to ignore the energy crisis, the Ohio Energy Emergency Commission has produced an "energy fairy tale."

The report, still in a preliminary stage, takes consumption and production trends up to 1972 and projects them through 1990, to illustrate a "business-as-usual" approach.

"These assumptions produce a patently infeasible picture of the future and consequently, (proves) major changes in business-as-usual will undoubtedly occur," a preliminary draft of the study says.

"The purpose of this approach is to place the necessary changes in perspective with the imbalances in the energy situation," the study says.

The bottom line of the study shows that, based on trends well-established before the oil embargo, Ohio would have come up 35 per cent short of its energy needs by 1980, and 53 per cent short in 1990.

The study chose 1972 as its base year because "while many warnings of impending problems were being voiced...nevertheless, the embargo was yet to occur and the public at large, industry and most elements of state and federal government had not yet turned serious attention to the energy situation."

The commission assumed supply and demand trends would remain the same, unaffected by prices and costs, and with no major new government policies implemented.

Under production trends, Ohio natural gas supply would continue to decrease as producers opted for unregulated interstate prices over regulated interstate prices. Foreign oil is phased out, but domestic and synthetic production is increased, and Ohio keeps its proportional share. Coal production remains stable. Nuclear plants under construction are completed, but no new ones are started.

Consumption trends for residential, industrial and transportation sectors established by 1972 were projected through 1990.

Then the production and consumption figures were compared. The result?

By 1980, the residential and commercial sector would want 1.63 quadrillion BTUs (British Thermal Units; a quadrillion is a thousand million million). It would get 1.13 quadrillion. The industrial sector would need 1.91 quadrillion; it would have 1.03. The transportation sector would need 1.02 quadrillion. It would get 0.83.

By 1990, the gap grows larger. Residential and commercial need 2.74, but have only 1.16 available, a 58 per cent gap. Industrial users need 2.75. They have only 1.24, a 55 per cent gap. And transportation needs 1.48, while getting only 0.86, a 42 per cent gap.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Three-way tie in the fools' sweepstakes

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for eight years. (No kids.) I thought we had a perfect marriage, and so did everybody else in town. We're in business here, and everybody knows us.

Last year a friend of my husband's was killed, and my husband started helping his widow. I was never invited to go along when he was helping her with whatever he was helping her with so much. He helped her over several weekends, so I finally told her that I needed him to help ME on weekends, but she didn't seem to care.

Finally, I found a love note in my husband's pocket. It was from her to him. Signed, too. I accidentally found it in his pocket. (This woman was supposed to have dearly loved her husband.) I know that this woman and my husband had no previous affair going while her husband was living.

Now, my husband has moved out of our house and is living with her. And on Main Street yet. I asked him if he wanted a divorce, and he said: "No." He is supporting me and living with her. He says I am a wonderful woman but he was just drawn to her. He knows if I divorce him, she would expect him to marry her, and he doesn't want that.

I have a question for you: Which of the three of us is the biggest fool? Me, for still caring for him? Him, for destroying his image in town? Or her, for letting him live with her and ruin her reputation?

DEAR LEFT: I would call it a three-way tie.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman, not young anymore, and I am married to a man who is older than I am. He's in poor health, and stubborn as a mule. He refuses to make a will, and I am told that if he should die without making a will, the government will take half of everything he has, and there will be such a high tax on what is left over, I may have to go to the poor farm. Is that true?

I don't have much education and wouldn't know how to talk to a lawyer, so please don't tell me to go to one. We are not rich, but we have worked and saved for nearly fifty years and I don't want to lose my security.

DEAR WORRIED: The place to get the facts is from a lawyer. Don't worry about your lack of education. He (or she) will explain everything to you in language you can understand. And don't be ashamed to ask questions.

If the bank you do business with has a trust department, it can also be helpful. Don't believe rumors. Get the facts: you'll be glad you did.

DEAR ABBY: I have a strange problem. I have been happily married for 14 years. My father-in-law remarried six years ago. His wife has a habit of giving me second-hand gifts.

In the days of the miniskirts, she gave me four half-slips that came down past my knees, a purse with a telephone number in it, and six nightgowns that smelled of mothballs!

This woman dresses beautifully, has excellent taste in clothes, and I cannot imagine why she would pass on these second-hand gifts to me that she wouldn't wear herself. An she certainly can afford to buy new gifts.

Should I return the next gift that is obviously second-hand and tell her I have no use for it? Or should I say it doesn't fit? Or what?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Accept the gift graciously, and dispose of it any way you wish.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DONALD IN SHAKER HEIGHTS: Girls who wear see-through blouses are easily seen through.

Registration sales sites set

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources' division of watercraft has announced locations where 1975 Ohio boat and outboard motor registrations can be obtained.

Licensed agents in Fayette County are the Lakewood Sportsman, CCC Highway-W, and Stew's Automotive, 717 Western Ave. Licenses will be sold only during the regular business hours at each location.

Boaters are reminded that 1974 registrations expired March 1 and are urged to obtain their 1975 registrations early to avoid the summer rush.

Starting this year, all watercraft operating on Ohio waters must display a current year validation sticker on each side of the bow of the watercraft in addition to the Ohio boat numbers.

Two stickers will be issued with each boat registration and are to be placed six inches from the Ohio boat numbers toward the rear of the boat. The registration must be aboard at all times when the watercraft is in use.

The boat number remains permanently with the watercraft, but the outboard motor number changes with each registration issued. The tag showing the motor number must be on the motor where it can be seen easily. The motor registration must be aboard at all times when the outboard is in use.

Annual fees for permanent watercraft and outboard motor registration are: outboard hull, rowboat, canoe, barge or raft, $1; sail boat, $3; inboard with motor under 100 horsepower, $7.50; inboard with motor 100 horsepower and above, $10; outboard motor, $3; and duplicate registration, $1.

Temporary 21-day registrations also are available for boaters who wish to use their boats immediately and are experiencing difficulty in obtaining a permanent registration. The fee for each temporary registration whether boat or outboard motor is $1.

A writing fee of 50 cents, in addition to the regular fee, is charged by the licensing agents for each registration issued.

Boaters registering boats 14 feet or longer and motors 10 horsepower and more must present their title to get a registration. Watercraft titles are stamped annually at the time of registration, just as automobile titles are.

Those who acquired a boat before Jan. 1, 1964 are not required to present a title when registering the craft.

Former state senator named to natural resources post

COLUMBUS — Harry L. Armstrong of Logan has been appointed chief of the division of oil and gas in the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Natural Resources Director Robert W. Teater, in announcing the appointment, said the 58-year-old Armstrong will assume the duties of chief of the oil and gas division effective today.

Armstrong, who served as a State Senator from 1967-74 and as a State Representative from 1962-66, helped write and was co-sponsor of the law which created the division of oil and gas in 1965. He also was co-sponsor of the 1972 Ohio Strip Mine Law and cosponsor of the law which established the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

"Armstrong has had 14 years experience in the oil field production business and is well aware of the problems facing the industry as well as the environmental concerns involved in oil and gas well drilling operations," said Teater.

Armstrong, who gained a reputation as a conservationist during his tenure in the Ohio Legislature, "will work closely with representatives of the oil and gas industry and also with environmentalists," Teater said.

The Natural Resources director said Armstrong's demonstrated ability to work with government agencies will be utilized in his new position as the Ohio Department of Natural Resources seeks to establish better relationships with county and other local governments.

HARRY ARMSTRONG

Armstrong, who owns and operates a 215-acre farm in Hocking County, is listed in "Who's Who in Ohio" and in the 1973-74 edition of "Community Leaders and Note-worthy Americans."

A district vice president of the League of Ohio Sportsmen, Armstrong has twice received the Legislative Conservation Award from the League of Ohio Sportsmen.

He was honored for his contributions to the state's conservation efforts by the Department of Natural Resources in September, 1974 when he was inducted into the Ohio Conservation Hall of Fame.

And a rare life membership was awarded to Charlie Chaplin, who recently was knighted by Queen Elizabeth II.

Counterattack opens on farm measure

By BRIAN B. KING

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ford administration agricultural and economic officials have begun a counterattack on the farm bill that comes before the House this Tuesday.

Among administration officials active in criticizing the bill, the thrust is the same: keep government out of agriculture except to protect farmers by seeing that the world markets function as they should.

But last week the Democratic majority in the House began picking up support for the bill, which would boost target prices for corn, wheat and cotton, plus hike dairy price supports and allow higher production loan levels.

Claiming they had not had a chance to come out against it before and were caught by surprise about the widely reported bill, the director of the President's Wage and Price Stability Council and a member of his Council of Economic Advisers last week told a special White House news conference of what they said was the bill's inflationary impact, its long-run injury to income-generating farm economy and to say they would recommend a presidential veto if the bill eventually wins congressional approval.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz also repeated his veto recommendation and claimed the House was "running for the fire bucket" for a temporary adjustment problem.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Clayton K. Yeutter later said in Indianapolis:

"This is the most dangerous legislative period for American farming in at least 10 years."

Yeutter took a slightly new tack in stressing that the shift in U.S. farm policy away from acreage controls, heavy subsidies and long-held surpluses was a bipartisan move that began with President Lyndon B. Johnson, and "farmers, consumers, taxpayers and the nation" benefited.

To reverse that trend and enlarge the government's role would start a "cycle of failure" after crop farmers "have just had the two best years of their lives," Yeutter said.

"We do not have a farm emergency. We have an economic emergency. It was brought on by public spending deficits, by the oil crisis and by cyclical business factors. There is no farm policy that can or should guarantee an artificial farm prosperity in the midst of an international recession," he said.

Fort Wayne couple dies in air crash

GRANDVIEW, Ind. (AP) — State police and investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration searched the wreckage of a private plane today for clues that led to the deaths of a Fort Wayne couple.

The six-passenger, twin-engine plane went down in a wooded area near here Sunday afternoon after witnesses reported seeing it burst into flames in mid-air.

The victims were identified by state police as Paul Robert Saunders, 32, and his 34-year-old wife Minnie Louise. The plane, piloted by Saunders, was believed en route to Owensboro, Ky., from Fort Wayne.

Air traffic controllers at Evansville reported brief radio contact with the aircraft, during which Saunders said one engine had failed and he was unable to fly higher than a 500 foot ceiling.

Police said they were kept away from the plane, which came to rest in a ravine, because of intense heat from burning aviation fuel.

The plane was owned by Meek Mack Inc., a Fort Wayne heavy truck dealer. Officials said Saunders had filed a flight plan earlier Sunday from Fort Wayne to Owensboro, Ky., where the firm has another office.

Annual Girl Scout Tea held at South Side Church

The 'wearing of the green' came a day early for several Girl Scouts in the area and their leaders Sunday afternoon. The occasion was the annual Girl Scout Tea, held from 3:45 to 5 p.m. in the South Side Church of Christ. There were approximately 125 present.

Mrs. Charles Cunningham, service unit chairman for Fayette County, was in charge of the event. Several songs were led by girls from various Girl Scout and Brownie troops. They sang "I've Something in My Pocket," "America," and "America The Beautiful." Troop leaders, their assistants, and girls were introduced.

Mrs. Vi Bulger, of Chillicothe, Area supervisor of the Girl Scout Seal of Ohio Council, showed two Girl Scout films, telling of the activities for established camp at Camp Ken-Jockety and Camp Molly Lauman. Flippo narrated the films.

Cookies and tea were served from a very pretty appointed table to parents, friends and members of the Girl Scout organization. Mrs. Dwight Foy and Mrs. Robert W. Fries presided at the silver tea service.

HAM FOR THE HOLIDAY — Dave Gerber is pictured showing the various cuts of a ham for Easter.

HAM FOR THE HOLIDAY Fourteen Fayette County Homemakers joined Dave Gerber and I to learn how to by, prepare, and carve that "Ham For The Holiday" last Thursday, March 13 from 1:00 to 3:30 P.M. at Grace United Methodist Church.

In addition to learning how to make frenched rib chops, boneless chops, butterfly chops and stuffed chops, and spareribs from an end roast, those present had the chance to sample pork recipes and take home the cuts demonstrated as door prizes and donated by the Fayette County Pork Producers.

"REBATES" Everyone is getting on the rebate bandwagon. The auto industry started the idea by offering a cash rebate to new car buyers who would take delivery before a specified date. The idea was to stimulate sales without cutting sticker prices.

Then other manufacturers began to offer rebates to employees and, in some cases, to consumers. Now you may see rebates offered on electrical appliances, home furnishings, and home improvements, especially air conditioning and other "off season" items or energy-saving items such as storm windows and insulation.

The government is getting into the act with proposed tax rebates. While discussion continues about tax rebates, some lending institutions are offering to advance the dollar amount of tax refunds offered. These are not true rebates, but are simply loans for the amount of refund due.

Rebates are meant to get consumers to part with some of their money. They are unemployed or have taken a wage cut or cut in number of hours or days worked. Some consumers are using up their savings; many are behind in credit payments, house payments, and utility bills.

Before responding to rebate offers, consumers need to ask one important question — can we afford it? In a time of economic insecurity, families and individuals must know exactly how much of their income is committed to regular payments for housing, food, utilities, transportation, and past debt on credit card accounts or installment plans. Families need to know how much is needed monthly for insurance, taxes, medical expenses, clothing and personal needs. What's leftover is a good basis for deciding the "can we afford it?" question.

Families that are over committed to fixed payments become extremely vulnerable to a cutback in wages, hours, commissions, bonuses, or sales. In many cases, families would be better off to save any extra they have to build an emergency fund equal to several months income. This emergency fund is more important than a new car or new appliances.

The consumer needs to shop around for the best price, too. Remember many rebates come from the manufacturer; the dealer still has some room to cut prices. And, if the item is financed, the cash return is not taken off the credit contract. You'll need to increase the amount of your down payment by the amount of the expected rebate or you'll pay interest on the total amount. This is true for tax refund advances from lending institutions. These are loans on which you will pay interest.

Shop around and compare "before" and "after" prices. You can find rebate bargains, but be sure the offer is as good as it sounds. Have you asked for our letter study packet, "A Look At Buying"? Have your free copy mailed to your home by calling 335-1150.

Get something for your back before it gets you!

You know how important your back is. Especially if you have a friend or two with back problems. But, frankly, most people don't really take proper care of their backs. They still sleep on the same saggy, squishy soft mattresses they've been sleeping on for years. After all, nobody really sees your mattress because it's all covered up with sheets and covers. Right? Right! Except, what a mistake. We suggest a change. To a new Maxipedic by Simmons, designed in conjunction with a leading orthopedic surgeon. The one sleep set that combines an outstanding firm mattress with a foundation, which includes a built-in bedboard. So, you get an extra measure of firmness doctors often recommend. Start taking care of your back. The Maxipedic can help.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

"I can only say that I certainly hope this will indeed be the 'final' such gesture," said Congressman William H. Harsha, in response to the news that President Ford had granted yet another "final" extension of his controversial Clemency Program, this time until March 31, 1975.

"As in the past, I continue my categorical opposition to amnesty for draft dodgers and deserters. We afforded them ample opportunity to re-enter American society through the initial program and the first one-month extension. I feel the government should now concentrate more effort on the problem of growing unemployment among Vietnam-era veterans and the still unresolved plight of those still listed as missing in action in Indochina," said the Ohio Republican.

"There are those within the Congress of the United States who still believe the Clemency Program was not enough," he said. "Senator Philip Hart announced he would introduce a universal and unconditional amnesty bill in the Senate that would eliminate the requirement for alternative service for those taking advantage of this over-generous offer of American forgiveness, and which would also grant veterans' benefits to some of those returning."

"This type of action would constitute a gross miscarriage of justice. Surely the good sense of my Congressional colleagues will prevail and resolutions and bills of this type will go down to resounding defeat," he continued.

Charles Goodell, chairman of the Presidential Clemency Board, was quoted as saying he was "very, very pleased."

"And well he might be," said Harsha, the ranking Republican on the powerful House Public Works and Transportation Committee. "That 'bleeding heart' liberal from New York has given those who deserted America when she needed them most, everything they've asked for. Now they want even more. We have virtually begged those who turned their backs on us to return. They want to return with honor, and I, for one, do not want to see that happen."

"It is time we remembered those who honorably and uncomplainingly served their country in her time of distress, found them jobs, saw to their medical and social needs, and comforted the hearts of those who lost sons, husbands, and loved ones in the defense of the principles of this great land, and forgot about those who gave nothing, but demand everything," he concluded.

Policeman suspended in death

DAYTON, Ky. (AP) — Campbell County Coroner Dr. Fred Stine today continued the investigation into the cause of the death of Michael Sanders, 18, in which an auxiliary policeman has been placed on suspension.

Police said Sanders died Saturday morning in a scuffle with police at his home when Patrolman Al Hughes, 32, struck Sanders on the head with his pistol and it fired.

Sanders was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital.

"He's been suspended for his own protection," Dayton Mayor Miles Vaught said of Hughes. "This is not to be taken as to an inference of any guilt. We'll make a decision regarding his status after the reports come in."

Safety Director Charles Spreter said Hughes was one of three officers called to aid life squad members at the home. They were attempting to subdue Donald Sanders, 19, who was suffering from a seizure, Spreter said.

When the officers handcuffed Donald Sanders, Spreter said, Michael attacked them.

Hughes then struck Michael Sanders with his pistol.

Spreter said he believed the weapon malfunctioned "because there were pieces of the pistol all about the room after it discharged."

Life preserver reminder issued

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Department of Natural Resources has reminded Ohioans that law requires that one life preserver be readily accessible for each person on board a boat.

Children under 10 are required to have life jackets on at all times on boats less than 18 feet in length.

Motorists speeding up again

By The Associated Press

Slow down!
That's the message state police are trying to get across to motorists who are speeding up as the energy crunch eases and the memory of gasoline shortages starts to fade.

One year after the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit went into effect on a nationwide basis, an Associated Press survey shows police in some areas are giving out almost twice as many speeding tickets as they were a year ago. Authorities are using radar, special patrol cars and even helicopters to try to slow things down.

Most officials said motorists were driving more slowly than they did before the 55 m.p.h. limit was imposed as an energy conservation measure. But they are driving faster than they were last year.

"We feel the public is stepping their speed back up for some reason," said Maj. J.L. Fuqua, commander of the Alabama State Troopers, but he added that at least people weren't going 90 or 95 m.p.h. the way they used to.

Fuqua said the number of accidents, injuries and fatalities is higher than last year, but below 1973.

"We have everybody out there we can rustle up," said a Michigan state police official, discussing enforcement of the 55 m.p.h. limit. He said that a spot check in May 1974 showed an average speed of 58.8 m.p.h. By September the average was 60.4 m.p.h.; by November, 61.3.

A spokesman for the Arkansas state police said compliance was good in the first months after imposition of the new limit. "It was the thing to do," he said. "Then the newness wore off."

He said the number of speeding tickets was up, partly because of the use of a seven-man squad of police cars that moves from area to area, enforcing the 55 m.p.h. limit.

New York State Police said they made 14,176 arrests for speeding in January this year — up 78 per cent from the 1974 figure. They also said a survey showed the average speed on interstate roads dropped from 63.9 miles per hour in 1970 to 59.7 in 1974.

The Washington State Patrol said 229,500 speeding citations were issued in 1974 — more than double the 111,000 citations handed out in 1973. But officials said motorists were violating the law at safer speeds, helping cut the death toll.

Ohio Assembly considering final sundry claims bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Hearings begin tonight in the Senate Finance Committee on a House-passed bill to pay about $881,000 in claims against the state—the last bill of its kind expected to come before Ohio lawmakers.

Effective Jan. 1, the legislature created a new State Court of Claims that can settle most such claims of less than $1,000 administratively, and require court actions to settle the others.

The new court replaced the old Sundry Claims Board which made recommendations to the legislature with regard to persons and organizations contending they were injured or disadvantaged by the state's negligence.

Finance Committee deliberations, along with a Senate floor session on one minor bill open the week's legislative proceedings with state budget proposals expected to get most of the attention.

The introduction last Thursday of Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposed $12.2 billion spending proposal finished laying out the task of the Senate and House finance committees. Ex-Gov. John J. Gilligan's $11.5 billion proposal has been under study for several weeks.

A vote could come in the Senate as early as Tuesday on a sales tax bill that is gaining momentum and being touted as one that would let Ohio boost its own economy without awaiting federal action. It would repeal the state sales tax on new car sales until June 30.

Sponsoring Sen. Robert D. Freeman, D-29 Canton, whose measure was recommended last week by the Senate Ways and Means Committee, said his legislation would help wipe out a huge backlog of new cars and stimulate employment in the auto and its raw material industries.

The bill could run into trouble, if it gets through the House, with Rhodes' administration budget planners who would have to figure out what to do about a $6 million to $7 million monthly revenue loss.

Manufacturers' opposition is expected Wednesday when the House Ways and Means Committee takes up a controversial bill that would require them to pay corporate taxes quarterly instead of each year.

Administration officials said the shift to quarterly payments would give the state a "one time cash pickup" of $85 million it needs to keep Rhodes' two-year budget proposal in balance without new or increased taxes.

Officials of the Ohio Manufacturers Association, normally a strong supporter of the GOP governor and his programs, objected strongly to the change. They said it could drive some of their members out of business, especially those already struggling under tight economic conditions.

In other action, the House Insurance, Utilities, and Financial Institutions Committee starts hearings Tuesday on highly publicized no fault auto insurance legislation. The House approved last year a bill requiring insurers to settle with their own victimized policyholders, regardless of blame—under certain conditions. That measure died in the Senate, however.

The Senate starts hearings tonight on a House-passed measure that appropriates $18.6 million extra to help the state meet the cost of increasing welfare case loads. On Thursday morning, the House Education Committee considers a measure that would add tornado drills to fire safety and other instruction already required in elementary and secondary schools.

Up for a Senate vote tonight is a measure that would require insurance companies to offer uninsured motorist coverage in the same amounts they provide liability coverage.

Sunny skies were expected to replace patches of heavy fog that formed over Ohio this morning.

The fog built up as skies cleared during Sunday night.

A broad ridge of high pressure covered the country from the Great Lakes to the lower Mississippi Valley and was expected to drift eastward into the night.

Four fires extinguished

Washington C. H. firemen responded to three fires over the weekend including two car fires. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a fire in a vacant Bloomingburg mobile home.

A car owned by Virginia Benson, 1034 Willard St., incurred some $200 worth of damage at 1:06 p.m. Saturday, when the engine caught fire at her residence. Washington C. H. firemen responded and reported oil leaking on the hot engine and a loose-fitting air cleaner may have been the cause for the blaze.

The second auto fire occurred at 12:14 p.m. Sunday.

A car owned by Gilbert Fox, Wilmington, ignited when the gas line broke at Borden Burger, 1501 Columbus Ave. Washington C. H. firemen doused the blaze with water and three pounds of carbon dioxide.

An hour and 15 minutes later, firemen were summoned to the John Dyson residence, 753 John St., where a hothouse for plants caught fire. They reported the fire burned itself out.

A vacant mobile home located at 25 Cross Street in Bloomingburg caught fire in the kitchen area at 2:30 a.m. Sunday, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported.

A neighbor, Sandy Smith, 27 Cross St., who was in the mobile home at the time of the blaze, managed to put it out and told sheriff's deputies, the fire probably resulted from a burning cigarette which was discarded in a cardboard box containing trash.

Final winter gun show attracts 200 exhibitors

Nearly 200 exhibitors attended the final winter show of the Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Collectors Association. After two days of freezing rains Thursday and Friday, temperatures warmed Saturday morning and 24 persons established their exhibits outside on the grounds at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Kenneth Craig, president of the association, said he was pleased with the crowd which attended the show. There was no competition this month due to the fact that it was a winter show.

Next month begins the association's summer season, and vast numbers of outside exhibitors are anticipated. It is likely that the rush for outside space will begin Friday afternoon, April 18,

Shapp supports larger trucks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gov. Milton Shapp has reiterated his support for legislation permitting larger trucks on Pennsylvania's highways.

In a weekend address to the Fraternal Association of Steelhaulers (FASH), Shapp said he has been criticized for favoring big rigs. However he added, "I support your efforts to bring Pennsylvania in line with the new national standards."

Those standards permit weights up to 80,000 pounds for five- and six-axle trucks. The present state limit is 73,280 pounds.

Shipping continues on lakes

GARY, Ind. (AP) — The Philip R. Clarke, a rust-colored U.S. Steel Corp. boat loaded with 24,757 tons of taconite iron ore pellets, steamed into the harbor at Gary Works Sunday and made history.

The delivery of ore from Two Harbors, Minn., ended the 1974-75 Great Lakes shipping season and opened the 1975-76 season — the first time one shipping period has blended into another.

From the time of fur-laden bark canoes, shipping on the lakes has been seasonal — an Easter to Christmas operation for the 19 American and Canadian fleets and their 200 fresh water vessels.

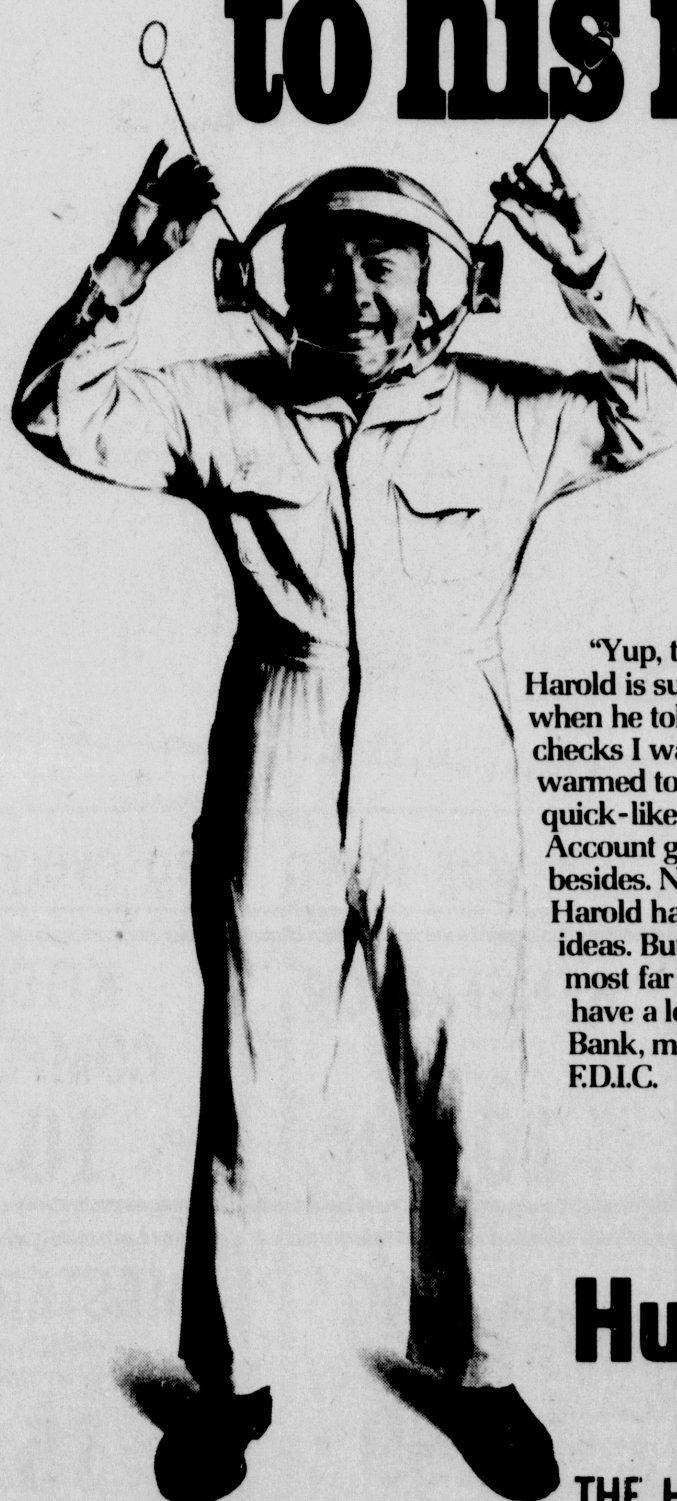

But, the arrival of the Clarke, and the expected arrival Tuesday of the Cason J. Calloway, have made year-long shipping a reality on Lakes Superior, Huron, Michigan and Erie.

Historically, economic life in the Northwest iron ranges and the Midwest steel-making regions has hibernated from December to April because of storms and arctic-like ice in the narrow inlets between the lakes.

Since the 1971-72 season, the Great Lakes Fleet of U.S. Steel has extended its season until Feb. 8. The Clarke's arrival, however is the first continuous season.

He said a Huntington All-In-One Account gave me many other bank services besides. Now that's a bargain. Yup, that Harold has some dang good modern ideas. But that hat. ## Business news

Beauty salon opens in city

Following a semi-retirement of three years, Mrs. Peggy Parr, of Greenfield, has decided to again become active in the hairdressing business. Par-Fay Hairdressers, 218 East St., formerly Helene's Beauty Shop, opened Monday morning.

A veteran of many years in the management of beauty salons, Mrs. Parr said she started two other beauty salons in Washington C.H. She said she initiated the Will-O-Wave and House of Charm and formerly owned the Beau Mond'e salon. She left Washington C.H. three years ago shortly after the death of her husband, Frank.

Lately, however, the urge to return home and again become active in the business prompted Mrs. Parr to purchase Helene's. She said the salon has been extremely remodeled.

The new owner said she is well prepared to cut men's hair and welcomes male clientele.

Her house in Greenfield is currently for sale, and she is seeking a home in Washington C.H.

The officers of Fayette Lodge are David E. Moore, worshipful master; Alford Carr, senior warden; Harvey Heironimus, junior warden; Joseph Shoemaker, treasurer; Russell Giebelhouse, secretary; Robert K. Moore, chaplain; Howard Miller, senior deacon; John E. Lyons, junior deacon; Charles Zinn, senior steward; Everette Vance, junior steward; Alfred Browne, tyler; Lester Bower, lodge educational officer; and David Baughn, organist.

Past masters of Fayette Lodge present were Harold V. Speelman, Lester Bower, William G. Ward, Gale L. Helms, Donald Soale, Walter D. Haines, Denzil L. Leggett, Robert A. Seymour, Charles M. Fults, Kenneth L. Chaney, Virgil E. Lowe, Harold Moats, Robert K. Moore, Milbourne L. Flee, Dennis B. Hawk, and Russell Giebelhouse.

Distinguished Masons present included Walter Peelle of Wilmington, also a District Deputy Grand Master in this, the 8th Masonic District; three past district deputy grand masters of the district; a district deputy grand high priest of Royal Arch Masons; six Knights of the York Cross of Honor, and two district educational officers.

The evening was concluded for the almost 100 in attendance with refreshments and a social hour in the banquet hall.

At a previous meeting, five 50-year members were honored by the lodge. Fifty-year pins and certificates of merit are awarded by the Grand Lodge F&AM of Ohio to those members who have been of service to the fraternity for half a century.

Present to receive his award was R. Burris Tharp. The presentation was made by Virgil E. Lowe, a past district deputy grand master in the 8th Masonic district and a past master of the lodge. Unable to be present, but who will receive their awards in the near future, were William C. Allen, Sr., Ellis V. Bishop, Cline Deere, and Frank A. Jean, Sr., of Clearwater, Fla.

Taconite tailings problems revived

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A disappointed, lecturing federal judge says the Reserve Mining Co. pollution case is mainly in the hands of the Minnesota governor and other state officials.

"It looks as though the Appeals Court has laid down such strictures as would preclude this court from further participation," said U.S. District Judge Miles Lord. "I think in many ways this court's hands are tied."

Lord gave his views after calling lawyers for Reserve and the government and environmental agencies to court Saturday to start recycling a case that went to trial nearly 20 months ago.

Lord ordered the state to submit within 15 days a proposed timetable for Reserve to submit permit applications and for submission of an environmental impact statement on effects of an on-land disposal site for taconite tailings.

He gave Reserve 10 days to reply after that and said he'd reconvene the case in a month.

The judge also called on the state and Reserve to name an expert in air pollution control measures to advise him on a timely solution to the firm's emission through smoke stacks.

Reserve mines low-grade ore at Babbitt, Minn., and ships it some 50 miles to Silver Bay, on Lake Superior. In processing the rock into high-grade ore—taconite—used in steel manufacturing, Reserve discharged up to 67,000 tons of finely ground waste rock into the lake daily.

Former Miss America to speak here Tuesday

Marilyn Van Derbur, a television personality and former Miss America winner, will address faculty members of both Washington C.H. and Miami Trace school districts as well as parents and other interested area residents at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Miami Trace High School auditorium.

Sponsored by the federally-funded Title I project, the program will not only deal with the motivation of average learners, but also of those who encounter learning difficulties.

The featured speaker believes that motivating the student is the greatest need in the educational system today. Her conviction is based on her own observations and studies during the past 12 years. An articulate speaker, Miss Van Derbur was named the "Outstanding woman speaker in America" in 1973.

Grandparents assist with schoolchildren

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Grandparents, those folks so well versed in dispensing love and affection and an occasional hug to a small child, are being pressed into service at the suburban Prairie Norton School.

It's the idea of the principal, Robert Walker, who believes that with the doses of education sweetened, a child feels secure in school and learning comes easier.

Twenty-two grandparents are spending regularly scheduled time in a quiet corner of the classrooms where they listen to a child read or help him with a problem, bolster his self-confidence and sometimes hear a secret or two.

Walker says the grandparents were reluctant at first when he went to a senior citizens center to recruit volunteers.

"But now they come a little earlier each day and stay a little longer, and some say they'll come two mornings a week instead of one when the weather gets better," he said.

The children are benefiting, too, as they become closer to the "classroom grandparent," Walker said. He explained he measures the success of the experiment in the relaxed contented faces of the pupils.

Youngsters in Sally Hobson's third grade class happily greet the now familiar Carl Hamilton with "Hi, grandad," and consult the schedule for their turn to sit with him for personal help in understanding new arithmetic symbols.

"We get along real good," said Hamilton, 70, who has eight grandchildren of his own.

In a first grade classroom, Edith Giehl lifted Jennifer Kunzi to her lap and offered a needed handkerchief.

"I have five children, 14 living grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren, and babysit for 20 to 25 families," she said.

Walker emphasized that the project is not a regular tutoring program and the grandparents' roles are not the same as the volunteer mothers who serve as teachers' aides.

"Children need love and affection and some, in the first grade, just need it more than others," he said.

Later perhaps the senior citizens will be given some training to help in personal tutoring, he said, "but at first, I just want them to love the kids."

John Dean cuts lectures short

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — John W. Dean III has cut short his college speaking tour, saying his speaking engagements inevitably ended in defenses of his acceptance of lecture fees.

The last stop for the former White House counsel and convicted Watergate conspirator was a friendly audience of more than 3,000 Saturday night at Santa Ana College.

"When I came out of prison, I wanted to go out and talk to students on campuses to share my experiences and bad judgments," he said.

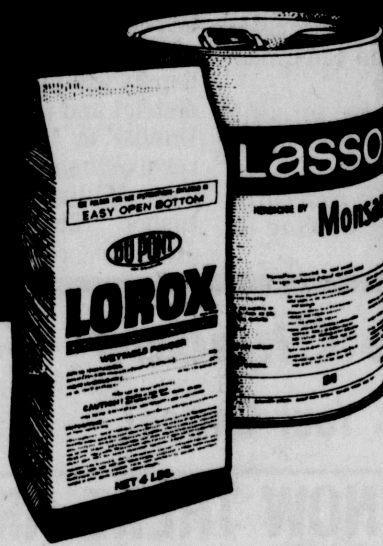

But even though the crowd laughed at his quips and applauded his remarks, he was asked whether he was profiting from the spoils of Watergate by accepting a $3,500 lecture fee and $200 expenses.

The tour had been set to continue another two weeks. But although he has repeatedly told audiences he accepted fees because he needs money, Dean admitted Saturday night that he was "troubled by commercialization." He had announced earlier that he was cutting his tour short.

Tigers finish season with 59-41 loss

Cold Greenfield ends tourney trek

FAKED OUT—Greenfield's Steve Harvey passes off to a Tiger teammate in faking out an unsuspecting River View player in Saturday's regional finals game at Athens. However, Greenfield needed points more than deceptive moves as River View blasted Greenfield 59-41.

Indiana, Kentucky nearing showdown

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Top-ranked Indiana is credited with changing Kentucky's mild cats into Wildcats. And the Hoosiers could soon tangle with their rampaging creation since both teams appear to be on a collision course into the finals of the NCAA's Midwest Regional next Saturday.

Kentucky was manhandled by Indiana 98-74 in December and from the ashes of that defeat rose a different Wildcat team, one that sometimes confuses basketball and boxing. One coach said that after the Wildcats were wiped out by the rough-and-tumble Hoosiers, they began playing "a karate defense."

That brand of play paid off in the first-round NCAA game Saturday, when sixth-ranked Kentucky, led by poised seniors Jimmy Dan Connor and Kevin Grevey, rolled over No. 5 Marquette 76-54, ending the Warriors' 12-game winning streak and prompting Marquette Coach Al McGuire to say: "I think we lost to a much better club... (Kentucky) is a much better team than a lot of people think they are."

While the Wildcats, 23-4, are looking ahead to a possible revenge bout with undefeated Indiana, they first must beat Central Michigan 21-5, in a Midwest Regional semifinal game Thursday night at Dayton, Ohio. "We certainly want to play Indiana but we can't overlook the next one," said Grevey, a second team All-American who scored 19 points.

In the other Midwest Regional semifinal Thursday night, Indiana, 30-0, plays Oregon State, 19-10.

The rest of the lineup for Thursday night's regional semifinals looks like this:

—Syracuse, 21-7, plays North Carolina, 22-7, and Boston College, 21-7, plays Kansas State, 19-8, in the East Regional at Providence, R.I.

—Cincinnati, 22-5, plays Louisville, 25-2, and Maryland, 23-4, plays Notre Dame, 19-8, in the Midwest Regional at Dayton, Ohio.

—Arizona State, 24-3, plays Nevada-

Las Vegas, 23-4, and Montana, 21-6, plays UCLA, 24-3.

The winners of the regional semifinals will then meet Saturday night in the finals, and when the dust clears, there will be four teams on their way to San Diego March 29-31 to crown a new champion.

Indiana took another large step toward the coveted title by whipping Texas-El Paso. And, of course, the Hoosiers' doomsday defense played a vital role.

"There's no question that our defense is the most important part of our game," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "It was tough for them to come back against us."

Indiana, which broke the game wide open early in the second half with a 31-12 spurt behind Steve Green and Quinn Buckner, received an inspirational lift by the appearance of injured high scorer Scott May.

May, wearing a cast on his right forearm to protect a broken bone, didn't take a shot and was credited with one rebound in 51 seconds of playing time. "He's looking better all the time," said trainer Bob Young. "He can be used in certain situations."

Second-ranked UCLA, seeking its 10th NCAA championship in 12 years, barely survived a battle with Michigan. With two seconds left in regulation, Michigan's C.J. Kupec rimmed an 18-footer and the teams went into overtime. "C.J. was out a little farther than I would have liked," said Michigan Coach John Orr. "But we had planned to play for the last shot and he makes most of those."

Early in the overtime, Marques Johnson cashed in two foul shots and Richard Washington tossed in a pair of jumpers to keep the Bruins' season alive.

Third-rated Louisville used Junior Bridgeman's career-high 36 points and a strong bunch of reserves to bust open a twopoint game at halftime. "I think the key was our bench," said Louisville Coach Denny Crum. "It was obvious in the last 10 minutes that Rutgers was not nearly as quick as they were in the first half."

BY PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

ATHENS — In its last two games, Greenfield McClain was making a habit of falling way behind then putting on a last quarter surge to barely defeat its opponent and continue in state tournament play. Saturday night, Greenfield fell behind alright, but the rally never came as the Tigers lost, 59-41, in the finals of the Athens Regional against Warsaw River View.

Greenfield finished the season with a 18-6 record and a history making trip into the class AA regional finals. This season's squad went farther in state tournament play than any preceding Tiger team, but the dream of making the state finals at St. John's Arena in Columbus will have to wait until next year.

THE BEARS from Warsaw River View never fell behind after putting two points on the scoreboard soon after the opening tip. River View went on to build a 9-0 lead and half the first quarter was over before Greenfield tallied its first points on a short jumper by junior center Steve Harvey.

The Tigers scored only six points in the first quarter and didn't do much better in the second period to trail, 32-14, at intermission.

It wasn't the Bears man-to-man defense or the mild press in the backcourt that kept the Tigers at bay. The usually sharpshooting Greenfield five just couldn't find the range Saturday night hitting a cool 30 per cent from the field.

OPENING the second half with a full court zone press, Greenfield showed signs of repeating a remarkable comeback victory like the one staged the night before against Marion River Valley. The Tigers' press was able to trap the Bears guards on the inbound play leading to enough turnovers to cut River View's lead to ten points going into the final period.

The Tigers narrowed the margin to nine points early in the fourth quarter, but the press was yielding too many Greenfield fouls and the Bears started to go the foul line with the bonus situation in effect. River View hit five consecutive freethrows putting the Tigers back down by 14 with a minute left.

GREENFIELD Coach Sam Snyder sensing the defeat pulled his starters, who received a fine ovation from some 2,000 Greenfield fans, and the Tiger reserves finished the game against the Bears starting five to drop an 18 point deficit.

Steve Harvey led the Tigers scoring with ten points and little senior guard Joe Stewart, the hero of the night before, hit for nine. Steve Ashcraft, 6-foot-3 forward, paced the winners with 16 tallies and 6-foot-6 center Eric Budendorf added 13 points.

The victorious River View Bears will take their 22-1 record to the state finals in Columbus for an 11 a.m. game on Friday against Rossford.

Little League registration set

President of the Washington C. H. - Union Township Little League, Don Kirk, said registration for all youths, 8-12 years of age, who are new in the area or haven't played in the league previously, will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Grace Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Kirk said the Little League held an organizational meeting last week to discuss plans for the leagues 20th year in Washington. One of the topics under discussion was a pitching machine that was purchased for the minor league program. Kirk said the league still needs managers and coaches for the coming season with tryouts slated for April 1, 2 and 3, for further information contact Don Kirk.

Eastlake North wins wrestling crown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eastlake North's first Ohio Class AAA high school wrestling championship was particularly sweet for its coach, John Matteucci.

The reason? Mike Milkovich, a longtime coaching rival at 10-time state winner Maple Heights, was the principal, beaten opponent.

"I'm just glad he (Milkovich) was in this tournament," said a beaming Matteucci moments after his team had wrapped up the title Saturday night at Ohio State.

Bob Nichols coach of Ohio All-Stars

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — University of Toledo Coach Bob Nichols has been selected to direct the Ohio All-Stars in the annual two-game Ohio-Indiana Sertoma Charities Basketball Classic next month.

The series pits the top senior college players of the two states against each other. The first game will be played April 18 in Indianapolis and the second April 19 at Ohio State University here.

Box score

GREENFIELD — Harvey 5-0-10; Stewart 4-1-9; Willett 4-0-8; Holsinger 3-0-6; Barr 1-2-4; Flynn 0-2-2; McCoy 1-0-2; Totals 18-5-41.

Alter team to beat in AAA

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Kettering Alter carries the only undefeated record, but there are some powers camouflaged among the oft-beaten teams in the 1975 Ohio high school basketball tournament.

Alter, breezing along with 24 straight victories after an upset of top-ranked Middletown, tangles with one of those "sleepers," Columbus Linden-McKinley, in the Class AAA semifinals Friday night.

Linden — McKinley's mercurial Panthers lost six of their first nine games under first-year Coach Jene Davis, but have won 13 of their next 15.

Linden has tradition on its side, winning the state title in 1967. Alter is searching for its first Ohio championship.

Other multilosers to watch are Class AA Louisville Aquinas (16-8), on a seven-game winning streak, and its Friday foe, Dayton Stivers (15-8). Stivers' record includes five forfeitures because of an ineligible player.

Fivetime loser Gnadenhuetten Indian Valley South in Class A could be a formidable hurdle. The Rebels are making their fourth straight semifinals journey.

Indian Valley South (19-5) faces Union City Mississinawa Valley (20-5) in a Thursday night Class A semifinal game in the three-day schoolboy classic in St. John Arena.

Maria Stein Marion (23-1) takes on Mansfield St. Peter's (24-2) in the other Class A semifinal Thursday night.

The other Class AAA semifinal Friday night will match Cleveland Heights (23-1) and perennial bridesmaid Canton McKinley (23-1).

In the other Class AA semifinal Friday, Warsaw River View (23-1) and Rossford (23-1) battle.

The championship games all are Saturday and new titleholders are assured in all three classes. Class AAA Cincinnati Elder, Class AA Akron Manchester and Class A Lorain Clearview won the 1974 crowns.

Stivers, one of Dayton's original public schools in its 69th year, goes out of existence after this season. The Tigers are bidding for their ninth state title if you count the old Delaware Invitational.

Stivers' official state crowns came in 1924, 1928, 1929 and 1930.

"We don't talk about that (last season) much. I've only brought it up with the kids once. I told them before the tournaments, 'Don't take anyone for granted,'" said Stivers Coach Earl Johnson.

Other former state champions in the running are Linden-McKinley (1967), St. Peter's (1968) and Indian Valley South (1972).

Canton McKinley is making its 14th trip to the state semifinals without a crown, but Coach Bob Rupert is confident this is the year for his Bulldogs, on a 23-game winning tear.

"We feel we're at our peak because of our regional victories," said Rupert. McKinley sped by Youngstown South 92-73 and Barberton 91-73 in the Canton Regional last week.

McKinley is led by 6-foot-7 senior Phil Hubbard, the only holdover from last year's state runnerup team. Hubbard is averaging more than 26 points and 16 rebounds.

Charlie Huggins has his Indian Valley South team in the state finals for the fourth straight season, much to the amazement of his rivals.

The Indian Valley mentor said,

Eber, Wilson cagers to receive awards

A recognition banquet for the Eber and Wilson basketball teams will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Miami Trace High School cafeteria.

The banquet will consist of a potluck supper. Those attending are asked to bring two dishes and their own service. Beverages and rolls will be provided with six hams to be given away after the dinner.

Nicklaus finally captures tourney

MIAMI (AP) — There have been 53 other American victories, along with assorted foreign triumphs in the British Open, the Australian Open and the World Cup.

But No. 54, which tied him for fourth place on the all-time winning list, was particularly pleasing to Jack Nicklaus.

The triumph in the Doral Open Golf Tournament Sunday wiped out the memory of a collapse that cost him the title in the Jackie Gleason Classic just two weeks ago.

It set him up for the Masters. It wrote an end to a series of frustrations that have plagued the Golden Bear since last fall.

And it came with Johnny Miller in the field.

"I read the papers like everybody else," Nicklaus said when asked his reaction to Miller's challenge to Jack's position as the game's premier performer.

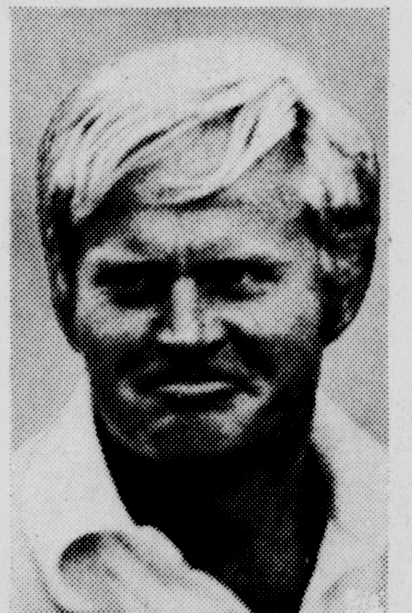

"He's won a lot of tournaments the past year or so. And he'll win a lot more. It's good for me and good for the game to have someone playing very well."

But Nicklaus, who had a final round 68 and won by three strokes with a 276 total, isn't ready to change his schedule or shift his priorities to meet the challenge.

"My schedule is the same as it's been for five or six years," Nicklaus said. "I played three in the west, I've played two in Florida. I'll play one more and go to Augusta with six tournaments."

"That hasn't varied by more than one tournament in several years."

And he turned his attention from Miller to the Masters in Augusta, Ga., April 10-13.

JACK NICKLAUS

"It's always nice to win," he said. "But it's particularly nice to win this close to Augusta. It's good to get your confidence up. And nothing is better for your confidence than winning."

Bert Yancey and Forrest Fezler, playing behind Nicklaus, had closed to within a single stroke of Jack as he stood on the tee on the 18th hole, a treacherous waterguarded layout that's probably the toughest on the 7,028-yard, par-72 Blue Monster course at the Dora Country Club.

Jack needed to make par four to retain his advantage. He made three.

He had a difficult lie in an old divot for his second shot, but dug it out with a three iron, hooking the ball around the edge of the lake to within 20 feet of the cup.

Ex-Blue Lion ends successful season

Former Washington Senior High School basketball star, Jeff Wallace, donned a Navel Academy Preparatory School (NAPS) uniform this season at the Newport, R.I., junior college.

The 6-foot-5 Wallace, a starter at center for last year's Blue Lion quintet, led the NAPS Rams in rebounding with 12 a game and he was the team's third leading scorer with a 10.5 point average. Wallace, who was a first team all-league choice last season averaging 14 points a game for the league champion Blue Lions, was also the Rams leading foul shooter hitting 76 per cent from the line and he shot at a 48 per cent clip from the field.

The Rams, coached by Ron Miller, finished the season with a 9-8 record against other junior colleges, community colleges and major university reserve teams.

Wallace scored 18 points in three different games this year and pulled down 17 rebounds in one game. His

Here's How

Old Book Extols Room Ventilation

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Feel tired, run-down, generally blah? It could be caused by improper ventilation of your home.

"It is only necessary to observe the countenances of those who inhabit close rooms and houses . . . the hue of their skins, their sunken eyes and their languid movements to be fully sensible of the bad effects of shutting out external air."

Those words published in 1856 in the "Mechanics and Builders Price Book" were meant to encourage builders to provide more ventilation in homes. But it must have had little effect. People still are inclined to lock themselves in tight during winter months.

The little book, wearing a price of 10 cents at a tag sale, carried a lot of worthwhile advice on the subject from the author, J. Wilson.

"Ventilation should be a matter of discharging impure air from rooms and filling them with pure atmospheric air. A person consumes the oxygen of about five cubic feet of air and vitiates (pollutes) 50 feet in an hour. A room containing four persons should receive and discharge at the rate of two hundred cubic feet in an hour to retain a healthy state of air," he advised builders. "In a close apartment two persons cannot retain a healthy state for more than three hours at most."

People confined to small rooms for seven to 10 hours, "acquiring stupor," sleep in it "because they become stupid," he continued.

A constant supply of fresh air could be provided by having a chimney in every room, and these should not be "stopped by chimney boards," he instructed. "Windows should be capable of being opened and should be situated on the side of the room opposite and farthest from the fireplace so that air could traverse the whole apartment on its way to the chimney (cross ventilation)."

"The easy access mankind has to this great blessing (the abundance of pure air that exists through nature) may have blunted us to the importance of inhaling it in an (unpolluted) state . . ." he went on.

People would not alter their "sanitary conditions" in his opinion unless they could understand the principles of heating, lighting and ventilating.

If that were so, "germs would more rarely develop, headaches and nervousness, general debility resulting from close confinement in badly ventilated rooms would be mitigated, and some stop would be put to the deterioration which has taken place in the mental and physical capabilities of poorer classes in our large cities."

With people crammed into a small space, it is amazing, he pointed out, that they "wake up from sleeps at all." Driving home his point, he chose an ugly example, the prison known as the Black Hole of Calcutta.

"In 1756 when 146 Englishmen were shut up in a small prison, 18-feet square with two small windows, within a short time they experienced oppressive thirst, soon became delirious and in six hours 96 were relieved by death from their agonies. Of the 23 that survived until morning only a few recovered."

They don't write that kind of builder's information book any more.

It disclosed, too, that carpenters worked for $1.75 a day, that it cost $1,102.86 to build a 30 by 24 foot brick cottage and that the total cost of a two-story house with full basement containing kitchen, pantry and root cellar was $1,899.07. Details for workers included the sizes of all materials—the number of bricks and so on—and their costs required for building each of 10 houses. With the book he could find the proper sash dimensions for 27 different size 12-light windows.

A recipe for paint that avoids "the disagreeable smell . . . and increases the durability so that it could be applied even to the walls of damp houses . . . substituted the blood of oxen obtained from butchers for the solution of glue or size.

A good agreement for carpenters that seems to have gone by the wayside was one that called for him to receive at least 75 per cent of his work price as work progressed with the remainder paid at the completion.

The author devoted the largest chapter to good architecture and went back to the scriptures. Solomon, the Tower of Babel and Egyptians, Greeks and Romans to prove his points and extol the feats of builders almost in a bedtime story vein. Noting the numbers used in building the Pyramids he pointed to an interesting sidelight that "it was expressed on the pyramids . . . the sums it cost only for garlic, leeks, onions and other vegetables of this description provided to the workmen." It may have been an additional health tip.

Circulation Can Be Checked

I think my circulation is bad. How can it be tested?

Mr. J.W., N.J.

Dear Mr. W.: I assume you have symptoms that suggest poor circulation. Cramps in the legs or coldness of the feet are two possible indications.

There are now many excellent and definitive ways to study narrowing of the arteries that bring blood to the legs and feet.

The blood pressure in the feet can be measured with special instruments. Pulsations of the arteries are an index of the free flow of blood.

Skin temperatures can be measured. This is an indication of the blood supply of the tissues below the skin.

Infrared photography, known as "thermography," adds much information about the blood supply.

Arteries can be injected with special dyes which, when followed by X-ray, clearly show any obstruction of the blood circulation.

There is no reason to just "think" that you have poor circulation. Examination can take the guesswork out of it. If it does not exist, you need not speculate. If it does, the cause

Opening lead - queen of clubs.

Some hands played in the annual world championship are positively amazing. Consider this deal from last year's match between France and North America.

At the first table, where Bob Hamman was in four hearts for the U.S., West led a club. Hamman took the ace, returned a trump and, after East had followed low, went up with the ace.

Hamman then ruffed a club in dummy and led a trump, won by East with the queen — on which West discarded a club. East returned a club to the king, whereupon Hamman played a diamond to the king and led a trump towards his J-6.

East took the king and played his last club to partner's jack, Hamman discarding a spade, but that was the end of the matter. West, out of clubs, returned a spade and Hamman easily scored the rest of the tricks for 620 points.

At the second table, Bobby Goldman, for the U.S., led a low spade against four hearts, thus preparing the way for the most extraordinary result of the tournament.

The French declarer took East's queen with the ace, played a club to the ace, led a trump to his ace, cashed the king of clubs on which he discarded a spade from dummy, and then played a low trump from his hand, hoping for a 3-2 division which would have given him ten easy tricks.

Disaster! East cashed the 10-K-Q of trumps, on which West discarded three diamonds, and that was the end of poor South. West cashed three spades and four clubs, and the French declarer went down six—600 points—on a hand where his opposite number at the previous table had made four hearts!

The U.S. team gained 1,220 points on this one deal!

Mrs. Golda Meir has operation

JERUSALEM (AP) — Former Premier Golda Meir is wearing glasses to protect her eyes from dust after a second cataract operation, a hospital spokesman says.

He added, "It was a quick operation. She was put under partial anesthesia. She was a good patient."

The operation occurred more than a week ago but she apparently had requested that no statement be released on it.

Mrs. Meir, 76, had previously worn glasses for reading.

The spokesman said she was hospitalized for six days after surgery on her right eye. A cataract was removed from her left eye Jan. 16.

The boomerang has been known to return to the thrower, even after striking the ground.

Bus crash injures 12

MCARTHUR, Ohio (AP) — A school bus driver and 11 students were taken to a Hocking County hospital today after a bus was involved in an accident with a tractor trailer rig on Ohio 93 in Vinton County, authorities said.

The Vinton County sheriff's office said the accident occurred about 9 a.m. as some 50 students on board the bus were on their way to the Swan School in the Vinton County district north of McArthur.

The 12 persons were taken to Hocking Valley Community Hospital where the students were treated for cuts and possible fractures and the driver, Florence Caudill of McArthur, was admitted in satisfactory condition, the hospital administrator said.

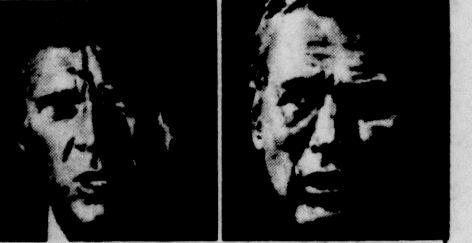

None of the children was in critical condition, he said.

Identification of the victims was unavailable.
